Welcome to the Charles Farrell House, a beautiful example of the Greek Revival architectural style, built between 1913 and 1915 by well-known architect John H. Roffler, brother to Mrs. Rose Farrell. Rose was a former owner of Farrell & Eddy Department Store, which now houses Camas Antiques. The house remained in the Farrell family until it was purchased recently by the Curley family, who are excited to share it with the community. Welcome to the Curleys!

Despite its age, the house is in wonderful condition and still boasts many original features: oak hardwood floors and trim, quaint light fixtures, built-ins galore, push button light switches, and wavy glass windows. Many areas of the house are currently being remodeled, not to remove the past, but to lovingly and thoughtfully bring out its former distinction while providing for a modern family. The overall design concept is an eclectic mix of traditional and contemporary styles to reflect the relatively young family who will move into the house next Spring. The walls in the main living areas are a neutral gray, but will be enlivened with cheerful splashes of orange, turquoise, green, and yellow in the furnishings.

For this year's tour, four interior designers have each taken on a room to stage, expressing their own ideas and designs. Julie Nolta of Julie Nolta Design, who is also the design consultant for the current remodel, has designed the living room with modern orange, white and silver. The dining room has been decorated by Carma Zarosinski of Carma for Design with an antique table set for a delightful holiday party. Paula Kotchik of PMK Interiors has brought touches of Paris to the teen-aged girl's bedroom painted in Tiffany box blue. The master bedroom features some wonderful antiques chosen by JoAnn Taylor of Camas Antiques.

Special thanks to Liberty Construction, Worthington Woodworking, A-Tech Stone Fabricators, and Chris Webster who worked long hours to get the main rooms done in time for the tour. Some areas of the house are still under construction and won't be open. However, you're invited back next year for a complete grand opening!
